HADASSAH—— Building Bridges Across Faiths to Combat Hate

Hadassah and American Muslim and Multifaith Women's Empowerment Council hosted a Women's Changemakers Conference and Hill Day bringing together leaders across different religions and backgrounds to combat hate. Attendees joined together in the halls of Congress to advocate for standing up to all forms of hatred including rising antisemitism. Meeting with members of Congress these women expressed concerns around the religiously motivated hatred that both the Jewish and Muslim communities are facing .

As part of the conference Carol Ann Schwartz moderated a panel on antisemitism in healthcare. The discussion highlighted the increasing antisemitism in the healthcare space and underscored the need to ensure that Jewish providers, patients and medical students feel safe and included.

Anyone interested in taking action can visit the Hadassah's website National Action Center for more information.

TORAH SPARKS —— Open your inbox every Tuesday to commentaries, videos, poems, and more from Fuchsberg Jerusalem Center scholars.

Torah Sparks are available by e-mail only. For anyone interested, please contact the office
